Mr Maduro is seeking a second term in office. The country's opposition has argued that Mr Maduro has become a dictator. Opposition supporters have repeatedly attacked government offices and taken over the streets to show their discontent, calling for Mr Maduro to step down. "A great victory in which the constitution conquers tyranny and authoritarianism," he said, vowing to continue fighting for his re-election. "I'm here because the Constitution is the law. The will of the Venezuelan people is the only law," Mr Maduro said. But Mr Maduro's opponents say his rule is increasingly autocratic and that Venezuelans are suffering under him. More than 120 people have died in the unrest. In August, the US sanctioned Mr Maduro and his family members. The Trump administration has imposed sanctions that 82157476af
